PASSING THROUGH

“Contemporary art tends more and more to rediscover the importance of discovery, of the experimentation of new materials and techniques borrowed from daily life. The artist becomes the one who reveals to all the possibility of new combinations of things. Cultural anthropology calls it bricolage, that is, a magic and playful use of objects which, displaced from the world of their usual functions, are shifted into new and fantastical uses. From the games children play the avant-garde and neo-avant-garde movements have relearned the ability to take apart the grown-up world and rework it in a personal and highly imaginative style. The method lies in thinking up alternative rules to the game, rules that fall outside of the repressive logic of reason and reasonableness.”

(Achille Bonito Oliva, in the Compulsory Education exhibition catalog, with me and Arman, Alighiero Boetti, William Burroughs, James Lee Byars, John Cage, Giuseppe Chiari, Enzo Cucchi, Milan Knizàk, Shigeko Kubota, Walter Marchetti, Yoko Ono, Nam June Paik, Vittor Pisani, Mario Schifano, Ben Vautier, Wolf Vostel with Gino di Maggio support)

Save that—the sloop’s keel spoiled by the morn of sighs—wherever they could forget the tenuity of a sinister breeze; save that the night had been a guidance for them, and the pillow assigned but malignant subterfuges, sighs, insignificancies, a little less, at least forgotten; as soon as their useless physiognomy would not desist from wedging through a tepidity of sapid inattention, through a threadlike quietness, trying to cherish the foaminess of the waves. Unfortunately—in that bitterness, in those rowboats—they were not less teeming with the breaths that had drawn them adrift, disinherited of those inlets that reforested ethereal pits through passages and spells to a faithful languidness; nor did they less descry—in the vacuous pulleys that retraversed frictions onto frictions—the sleepy crags of others’ trance, musty oars of sweats and languors, in the marshes of subtended shadows, which once adorned them with branches and pestilence, to defense, to offense; nor did they less descry—in those very hulls, as a raft forgets to draft a refrain to whet the regurgitations from the stems—the swimmers of the ingenious armillas whose bruises they collected; or the devourers, perchance greedy of those exhaustive rinsings whose dark resources they kept in tunnels, despite the fact that the selfmoving physiognomy of abeyance—which covers the views of slimy ditches—narrates their forays and the outrages of viscosity; even of the precipice that urges them on to an unrowable loop, unfortunately, they remember but a very tedious tribulation.
